

The South China Sea: Central to Asia-Pacific Peace and Security

March 13-15, 2013

Asia Society and Museum, 725 Park Avenue, New York

Speaker Profiles

Robert Beckman

Robert Beckman heads the ocean law and policy program and is the Director of the Centre for International Law at the National University of Singapore (NUS), which was established in 2009. Professor Beckman is also an Associate Professor at the NUS Faculty of Law. He currently teaches Ocean Law & Policy in Asia and Public International Law. He is an expert on the issues of law of the sea in Southeast Asia, including piracy, maritime security, the South China Sea and the Straits of Malacca and Singapore. He served for several years as a regional resource person in the workshops on Managing Potential Conflicts in the South China Sea and Professor Beckman also lectures in the summer programme at the Rhodes Academy of Oceans Law & Policy in Rhodes, Greece.

Henry Bensurto

Henry Sicad Bensurto Jr. is the former Secretary General of the Commission on Maritime and Ocean Affairs Secretariat (CMOAS) and incoming Assistant Secretary of the West Philippine Sea Center (WPSC), Department of Foreign Affairs. A recipient of the Presidential Award of Gawad Mabini (with the Rank of Commander) for his distinguished contribution and leadership in the passage of the Philippine Archipelagic Baselines Law on March 10, 2009. He helped shepherd the preparation and submission of the Philippine partial claim for Extended Continental Shelf (ECS) before the UN Commission on the Limits of Continental Shelf (CLCS) in April 2009.

Andrew Billo

Andrew Billo is an Assistant Director at the Asia Society's New York headquarters where he manages the organization's public programs in the policy domain. Prior to Asia Society, he was an official with the International Organization for Migration (IOM) where he was posted to Vietnam, Jordan, and Cambodia. While based in Ho Chi Minh City, he managed projects aimed at combating the exploitation of migrants. In the Middle East, he held operational and logistical responsibilities pertaining to refugees. Prior to joining IOM in 2004, he served as UN Volunteer, also in Vietnam. Andrew holds a Master's degree in International Affairs from Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs (SIPA) in New York and a Master's degree in Public Policy from the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy in Singapore. He holds a B.A. from Colorado College and speaks Vietnamese.

Jerome A. Cohen

Jerome Cohen is Professor of Law at New York University School of Law, Co-Director, US-Asia Law Institute and the senior American expert on East Asian law. Each year, Jerome Cohen teaches a course on Chinese law and society. In some years he offers courses on comparative international law or international business contracts and economic cooperation with East Asia. In addition to these formal courses, Professor Cohen coordinates a Chinese language colloquium that attracts key figures in Chinese law and hosts a weekly Asia Hour for students, featuring informal (and frequently autobiographical) talks by prominent diplomatic and government officials, leading academics, and other influential practitioners in the East Asian legal area.

Patrick Cronin

Patrick Cronin is a Senior Advisor and Senior Director of the Asia-Pacific Security Program at the Center for a New American Security (CNAS). Previously, he was the Director of the Institute for National Strategic Studies (INSS) at National Defense University and has a nearly 30-year career inside government and academic research centers. He used to serve at the London-based International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS) and the Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS). In 2001, he was confirmed by the Senate to the third-ranking position at the U.S. Agency for International Development. Dr. Cronin received both his M.Phil. and D.Phil. degrees in University of Oxford, and graduated with high honors from the University of Florida.

David Denoon

David Denoon is professor of politics and economics at New York University and Director of NYU's Center on U.S.-China Relations. He is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations, the National Committee on U.S.-China Relations, the International Institute for Strategic Studies (London), the Asia Society, the U.S.-Indonesia Society, and Co-Chairman of NYU's Asia Policy Seminar. He is also chairman of the Editorial Advisory Board of Great Decisions. Denoon is the author and editor of seven books, including Real Reciprocity: Balancing U.S. Economic and Security Policy in the Pacific Basin.

Heng Yee Kuang

Heng Yee Kuang is an Associate Professor and Assistant Dean (Research) at the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy. Dr. Heng's research interests include security risks in the age of globalization; Singapore's experience of managing global risks as a global city; 'soft' power strategies in the Asia-Pacific; Great Power Politics; and strategic studies and the evolution of strategic cultures. Dr. Heng holds a PhD in International Relations from the London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE), UK where he also taught from 2002-2003. Before joining LKYSPP, he was Lecturer (Assistant Professor) in International Relations at the University of St Andrews, UK (2007-2011). He was also Lecturer (Assistant Professor) in Political Science at Trinity College Dublin, Ireland (2004-2007).

Christopher Hill

Christopher Hill is currently the Dean of the Josef Korbel School of International Studies at the University of Denver. Previously, Hill was America's Ambassador to Iraq and immediately prior to that assignment, he was Assistant Secretary of State for East Asian and Pacific serving as the lead U.S. negotiator at the Six-Party Talks on the North Korea nuclear issue. A career member of the Senior Foreign Service, Ambassador Hill has also served as the American Ambassador to the Republic of Korea (2004-2005), Poland (2000-2004), and the Republic of Macedonia (1996-1999). He also served as Special Envoy to Kosovo (1998-1999) and as Special Assistant to the President and Senior Director for Southeast European Affairs in the National Security Council.

Huang Jing

Huang Jing is a professor and the Director of the Center on Asia and Globalization at the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy. Dr. Huang has published numerous works on Chinese foreign policy and politics, security issues in the Asia-Pacific and US-China relations. His book, Factionalism in Chinese Communist Politics, won the prestigious Masayoshi Ohira Memorial Prize in 2002. Dr. Huang also serves as Senior Overseas Economic Analyst for China's Xinhua News Agency. He was previously a Senior Fellow at the John Thornton China Center at the Brookings Institution, and has taught at Harvard University, Utah State University and Stanford University. Dr. Huang received his Ph.D. in Political Science from Harvard University and his MA in History from Fudan University.

Lynn Kuok

Lynn Kuok is a Rajawali Foundation Fellow at the Ash Center for Democratic Governance and Innovation, Harvard Kennedy School. Lynn Kuok's research covers ethnicity, religion and nationalism, peace and conflict studies, and the politics of Southeast Asia. Her current project looks at how the structure of religious organizations impacts peace and conflict outcomes and the implications for government action. Lynn Kuok was editor-in-chief of the Cambridge Review of International Affairs and the Singapore Law Review. She holds a Ph.D. from University of Cambridge, a master's degree in law and diplomacy from the Fletcher School and a LLB from the National University of Singapore.

Angelo Azura Jimenez

Angelo Azura Jimenez is Of Counsel at the Jaromay Laurente and Pamaos Law Offices in the Philippines. He is also Executive Vice President of the Asia Pacific Basin for Energy Strategies, Inc., a Manila-based energy and economic think tank. Until 2007, he was Deputy Administrator of the Philippines' Overseas Workers Welfare Administration (OWWA). He was Philippines Labour Attache to Japan, Kuwait and Iraq. While in government, he specialized in crisis management and handled special assignments such as hostage rescue and negotiations in Iraq from 2004 to 2005 and was chair of the crisis management committee under the Department of Labour during the war in Lebanon in 2006. He took his degrees in Sociology and Law at the University of the Philippines.

Walter Lohman

Walter Lohman is Director of The Heritage Foundation's Asian Studies Center. Lohman joined Heritage in 2006 as Senior Research Fellow for Southeast Asia, Australia and New Zealand. Before joining Heritage, Lohman served as Senior Vice President and Executive Director of the U.S.-ASEAN Business Council. The other part of Lohman's career has been spent as a Senate staff member. In 2002, he served as senior professional Republican staff advising Sen. Jesse Helms (R-NC) on issues affecting East Asia. From 1991 to 1996, he served as a policy aide to Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) advising McCain on foreign policy, trade and defense issues. Lohman has a bachelor's degree in humanities from Virginia Wesleyan College and a master's degree in foreign affairs from the University of Virginia.

Stephen Loosley

Stephen Loosley is a former Australian Senator and General Secretary of the NSW ALP and ALP National President. Stephen has specialist experience in international affairs, public policy, legislative process and major infrastructure projects. He holds several high profile appointments including Chairman of the Australian Strategic Policy Institute, Senior Vice President of the European Australian Business Council and eight years as Chairman of the Committee for Sydney. His deep understanding of the dynamics affecting business and government, locally and globally, is invaluable in helping organizations tackle complex issues. Having pursued careers in both the political and corporate arenas, Stephen is uniquely placed to offer-high level strategic advice to public and private sector clients.

Duncan McCargo

Duncan McCargo is professor of Southeast Asian Politics at the University of Leeds and a Visiting Scholar at the Weatherhead East Asian Institute at Columbia University. His interests mainly focus on politics of Thailand and comparative politics of Southeast Asia. He is best known for his agenda-setting contributions to current debates on the politics of Thailand. In addition, Professor McCargo has lived in Singapore, taught in Cambodia and Japan, and published on Indonesia and Vietnam. Dr. McCargo appears regularly on BBC radio and television and has written for The Daily Telegraph, The Economist, The Guardian, and Time magazine. He has also given briefings to senior officials including UN staff and the president of the Thai Senate.

Tom Nagorski

Tom Nagorski became Executive Vice President of the Asia Society following a three-decade career in journalism — having served most recently as Managing Editor for International Coverage at ABC News. Before that he was Foreign Editor for World News Tonight, and a reporter and producer based in Russia, Germany and Thailand. Nagorski was the recipient of eight Emmy awards and the Dupont Award for excellence in international coverage, as well as a fellowship from the Henry Luce Foundation. He has written for several publications and is the author of Miracles on the Water: The Heroic Survivors of a World War II U-Boat Attack.

Nguyen Thi Lan Anh

Nguyen Thi Lan Anh is the Vice Dean of the International Law Faculty, Diplomatic Academy of Viet Nam, where she has taught since 2000. She teaches courses in Public International Law, International Law of the Sea, WTO Law and International Dispute Settlement. She is also a member of the research programme of the Diplomatic Academy of Vietnam on the South China Sea. Lan Anh received a Bachelor of Arts in Law degree from Hanoi Law University in 1998, a Bachelor of Arts degree in International Relations from the Diplomatic Academy of Viet Nam in 1999, and a Master of Arts in International, European and Commercial Law degree from the University of Sheffield in 2004. She obtained a Doctor of Philosophy degree in International Law from the University of Bristol in 2008.

Nguyen Thi Thanh Ha

Nguyen Thi Thanh Ha has served as Director General of the Department of International Law and Treaties in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Viet Nam since 2012. She joined the Ministry of Foreign Affairs as a legal expert in 1980, a position she held until 1990. She served as the Third Secretary at the Embassy of Viet Nam to Indonesia and as the Minister Counselor and Legal Advisor of the Permanent Mission of Viet Nam to the United Nations, covering social and humanitarian issues within the work of the 3rd Committee of the UNGA and ECOSOC. She was also Vice-Chair of the Counter-Terrorism Committee of the UN Security Council. She received her B.A. in International Relations at the College for Foreign Affairs in Hanoi, Viet Nam, and her M.A. in International Law at Harvard Law School.

Bernard Oxman

Bernard Oxman is the Richard A. Hausler Professor of Law at University of Miami. He regularly teaches Conflict of Laws, International Law, Law of the Sea and Torts courses. As a globally renowned expert on the Law of the Sea, he has served as judge ad hoc of both the International Court of Justice (ICJ) and the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea. Professor Oxman is also a leading expert on International Law. He serves as the co-editor of the American Journal of International Law, the country's leading publication in the field and considered by many to be the world's most prestigious International Law publication. Professor Oxman earned an A.B. from Columbia College in 1962 and a J.D. from Columbia Law School in 1965.

J. Stapleton Roy

J. Stapleton Roy is a senior U.S. diplomat specializing in Asian Affairs. A fluent Chinese speaker, Mr. Roy spent much of his Foreign Service career in East Asia, where his assignments included Bangkok (twice), Hong Kong, Taipei, Beijing (twice), Singapore, and Jakarta. He also specialized in Soviet affairs and served in Moscow at the height of the Cold War. Mr. Roy rose to become a three-time ambassador, serving as the top U.S. envoy in Singapore (1984-1986), the People's Republic of China (1991-1995), and Indonesia (1996-1999). In 1996, he was promoted to the rank of Career Ambassador, the highest rank in the Foreign Service. He is now Director of the Kissinger Institute on China and the United States at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars.

Yang Fang

Yang Fang is a Research Associate at the Centre on Asia and Globalisation (CAG) at the Lee Kuan Yew School of Public Policy. She was an Associate Research Fellow with the Maritime Security Programme at S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies, Nanyang Technological University from 2009-2011 and received her MSc from RSIS in 2009. Her research interests lie in maritime security issues ranging from maritime boundary disputes in East Asia, to naval development in Asia-Pacific, piracy in both Southeast Asia and Horn of Africa, and other non-traditional maritime security issues.

Zhang Xinjun

Zhang Xinjun is an Associate Professor of Public International Law at Tsinghua University, Beijing. His research interests include the Law of the Sea, International Environmental Law, Non-proliferation Law and the Law of Treaties. He is the Executive Director of the Center for the Law of the Sea Study in Tsinghua Law School, also a member of International Law Association (ILA), participating ILA Committee on the Legal Principles relating to Climate Change.

Zhu Chenghu

Zhu Chenghu holds the rank of Major General in the People's Liberation Army of China. He is also the dean of the Defense Affairs Institute for China's National Defense University of the People's Liberation Army, where he has been teaching and researching for nearly 40 years. During this time, he has also worked in the National Institute for Strategic Studies at the U.S. National Defense University, the University of London's School of Oriental and African Studies, and the East Asian Institute at the National University of Singapore as a visiting fellow. His current research focuses on major power relations, Asian-Pacific security, China's national security, and other topics on which he has published several articles.