Loeb & Loeb

Stephen L. Saltzman has broad experience in domestic and international transactions in the entertainment industry. He represents U.S., European, and Asian producers; production companies; studios; distribution companies; broadcasters; digital media companies; banks; film funds, directors and talent. His experience encompasses the legal and business aspects of the development, production, sale, distribution and financing of feature film, television, videogame and digital media projects, as well as related ancillary products such as print publications, merchandise and new technologies.

Mr. Saltzman concentrates his practice on innovative and complex international co-production and co-financing transactions, as well as on the representation of financiers, distribution and production companies/producers in sophisticated motion picture and television financing and structuring transactions.

He frequently utilizes his language capabilities and in-depth knowledge of both the U.S. and non-U.S.-based film and television industries in representing the interests of international companies and individuals in Hollywood.

Mr. Saltzman frequently participates as a featured speaker and panelist in seminars and symposiums in the United States, Europe and Asia, and his German-speaking practice has been profiled in various German publications.
