

Asia Southern
Society California

EMASIA
Entertainment & Media in Asia

JINGYAN (MAGGIE) HUANG

Managing Director, Pictures, Entertainment and Derivatives Division
Fosun

Over the past decades, Jinyan (Maggie) Huang has held a variety of senior leadership roles in the private equity, banking and consulting industries. Her responsibilities encompassed business development, strategic planning, finance, deal sourcing, deal execution and valuation, as well as restructuring operations.

As Managing Director of Fosun's Pictures, Entertainment and Derivatives Division, Huang is responsible for strategic planning and oversees all the daily deal sourcing, deal execution and valuation functions for the division. Huang also led the establishment of Fosun's first entertainment related business unit and initiated the investment in Studio 8 and Shanghai Film Ltd., as well. Prior to joining Fosun Capital, Huang was one of the partners of Shanghai Stone Capital, where she led the establishment of firm's first venture capital fund, built up the team, completed various successful deals worth more than $300 million, focusing on retail, services and real estate, among others.

Huang also worked as a research analyst in Morgan Stanley's Hong Kong office and covered the capital goods sector, where she helped several mutual-fund and hedge-fund clients explore potential trading opportunities in equities, convertible bonds and derivatives. Previously, Huang also worked at Accenture Consulting, Roland Berger Strategy Consultants and Deloitte's Audit Department. Huang holds a Master of Business Administration from Shanghai Jiaotong University and is also a CFA charterholder.