*We're proud to present a forthcoming collection of essays from Chris Livaccari, an educator, former diplomat, and current senior advisor to Asia Society's China Learning Initiatives. In New Ways of Seeing: How Multilingualism Opens Our Eyes and Trains Our Minds for a Complex World, Chris's fresh ideas present a timely case for language learning as a means to enhance and deepen students' capacity for processing information and analyzing the shape of the world. Selections from the book will be highlighted in this and future issues of Chinese Language Matters.*
