

Definition of Story

Story: This is essentially the plot of the script that you propose to write during the fellowship programme. The most elementary definition of a story here would be that it is composed of a series of experiences that arise out of the main character's struggle with a situation that has significantly disturbed his life in either a positive or a negative way. The character/s' response to the changed condition sets in motion a chain of events, eventually making it imperative that the situation be resolved one way or another.

What we are expecting from you is a story based on an original idea of yours. The story has to be complete — meaning that it has to have an ending!
