LEADERSHIP INSIGHTS PANEL: The Power of Asian Spend: Marketplace & Outlook

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, the Asian population recently grew by 3 percent to 21 million and the Asian American buying power is projected to surpass $1 trillion, by the end of 2018, according to the Selig Center.

Hear from leading companies who have successfully tapped into the Asian-American spending power. Learn what drives the Asian market spend, how leaders establish new lines of business and adapt strategy to market and demographic changes. Panelists will closely examine arising opportunities, and proven initiatives for building a thriving business by leveraging cultural competency and specific needs of Asian consumers.

CASE STUDY: Training & Developing Asian Talent in Sales & Marketing

Effective communication skills are critical in any role or function in the business world. Whether for external clients, consumer engagements or for internal audiences, the ability to communicate with authority, credibility and confidence is of great importance. During this case study, participants gain insights to best practices of how a company is training their Asian talent with the skills required to maximize effective communication and executive presence. The Goldman Sachs Asian Professionals Network (APN) offers an eight-week series of training sessions called the Presentation Skills Bootcamp, with the objective of coaching members of the network on enhancing their presentation skills and executive presence with a personal mentor. Over 100 APN members have graduated from this program over the last five years.
