INTRODUCTION TO THE SYMPOSIUM

Since 2009, Asia Society has hosted the Global Talent Symposium, an annual corporate forum to exchange innovative ideas and best practices around leveraging diverse talent, with a highlight on Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) employees. This year’s Symposium brings together leading perspectives on how companies and individuals can prioritize the business case for diversity, equity, and inclusion amid an increasingly polarized and contentious climate.

The content throughout the day is organized to address challenges from both the institutional as well as individual perspective, since both must work in concert to enact lasting change across organizations and industries at-large. The morning Symposium program will be followed by the Drivers for Diversity Awards ceremony in the afternoon as we honor and recognize individuals from the Asian diaspora, and the contributions they have made across their companies and communities.

GLOBAL TALENT SPEAKER SERIES

Asia Society’s 2024 Global Talent Symposium is our annual, signature event. Originally a one-day conference, Global Talent has evolved into a year-long curriculum. After the May 15 Symposium, programming will continue throughout the year via the Global Talent Speaker Series.

The Speaker Series consists of four additional events that center the expertise of AAPI leaders as they share strategic solutions to the specific challenges that institutions and individuals face in unlocking the full potential of Asian workers. These online and in-person events aim to provide continuous learning and inspiration for individuals who desire to expand their networks and community; gain access to leadership coaching; and receive culturally-informed training.

This year’s Symposium and Speaker Series is made possible thanks to the generosity and support of the following companies:

Senator Kirsten Gillibrand
United States Senator for New York

Senator Kirsten Gillibrand doesn’t shy away from a big fight.

In just her first term in the Senate, Kirsten led the effort to repeal the discriminatory “Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell” policy, which banned LGBTQ people from serving openly in the military. And she passed the historic 9/11 health bill, which ensured that first responders and 9/11 survivors got the health care they deserved. More recently, she passed major legislation to give benefits to veterans exposed to toxic burn pits overseas, passed the first-ever federal law making domestic gun trafficking a crime, and reformed the military justice system on behalf of our nation’s service members.

She also wrote and passed the STOCK Act to ban members of Congress and their families from insider trading. And she was the first member of Congress ever to post a daily report listing her official meetings, earmark requests, and personal financial disclosures online for public consumption.

As a working mother, Senator Gillibrand continues to put the challenges that working families face front and center. That’s why she’s currently leading the fight to provide every working person in America with paid leave. She is chair of the Senate Armed Services Subcommittee on Emerging Threats and Capabilities, and she also serves on the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, Senate Agriculture Committee, and Senate Aging Committee.

Senator Gillibrand’s home is in Albany, New York, where she grew up. She and her husband Jonathan have two boys, Theo and Henry, and a labradoodle, Maple.
